Finding Authentic Happiness

What is the thing you desire most in life, for yourself, your children and grandchildren? The answer heard most often is an overwhelming, "HAPPINESS!" This is our fundamental drive as far back as the writing of our country's constitution. We have an unalienable right to, "Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness". Where some of the inconsistency of opinion arises is the definition of happiness. Many associate happiness with smiling or laughing. Due to the misconception of what happiness encompasses, positive psychology has coined the term "well-being" or "authentic happiness". According to Positive Psychology, authentic happiness and well-being consist of many facets and have been explained using the acronym of "PERMA" (positive emotion, engagement, relationships, meaning and purpose, and achievement).

- Positive Emotion does not always equal smiling, laughing and cheerfulness. It also embraces emotions such as security, comfort, gratitude, contentment, and interest. Many look to outside conditions as the cause of positive emotion; however, research has shown quite the opposite. Positive emotion begins from within and can actually have a positive effect on the outside conditions.

- Engagement is about flow; being one with the music, time stopping, and the loss of self-consciousness during an absorbing activity. Engagement is different, even opposite, from positive emotion. If you ask people who are in flow what they are thinking and feeling, they usually say, "nothing." One needs to deploy his or her highest strengths and talents to meet the world in flow. There are effortless shortcuts to feeling positive emotion but there are no shortcuts to flow.
- Relationships which are positive can be the number one generator of ultimate well-being and are a support network nurtured through giving and receiving. Humans are socially programmed and work hard to find and build relationships with other people. We affiliate and attract different people at different stages of our lives. Cultivating positive relationships can sometimes seem like a challenge, however, there are many tools available to develop and enhance personal and professional relationships.

- Meaning and Purpose can be achieved in belonging to and serving something that you believe is bigger than the self. Humanity creates all the positive institutions to allow this (e.g. religion, family, political party, charities). Human beings have an intrinsic urge for meaning and purpose in life.
- Achievement is described as a way of reflecting on the attempts of doing something and the degree in which it provides a positive sense of accomplishment. It is important to acknowledge your own goals and your own accomplishments, rather than comparing yourself to what others have accomplished or achieved. These constructs of well-being and positive psychology coincide with the principles and philosophy of positive living and practical spirituality. These same constructs and principles have been taught by Unity for several decades. Unity of Reading will be devoting every Sunday morning in September to providing tools for exploring and acquiring authentic happiness and well-being. We invite you to join us and look forward to seeing you! (Please see our ad).

Strategies To Motivate Students
To Be More Physically Active

Today's students arguably have more on their plates than any generation that came before them. But even with their hectic schedules, kids still have free time, which many are not always using in the healthiest ways possible. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, nearly one-third high school students play video games or computer games for three or more hours on an average school day. Sedentary lifestyles can increase kids' risk for being overweight or obese, and many parents struggle in their efforts to encourage their school-aged children to get off the couch and embrace physical activities. The following are a handful of strategies concerned parents can employ as they attempt to motivate youngsters to be more physically active.

- Choose the right activity. Physical activity and organized sports are not one and the same. Kids can still be physically active even if they are not athletic or if they are simply not interested in sports. Find an activity kids can embrace, such as hiking, swimming or even riding bikes, and they will be more likely to get off the couch.

- Limit screen time. Kids spend lots of time in front of computer and television screens, which can be detrimental to their overall health. Parents can place restrictions on the amount of time kids are allowed to spend surfing the Internet, playing video games and watching television, encouraging youngsters to spend time enjoying the great outdoors or playing with friends rather than spending it staring at a screen.
- Join in the fun. Parents can set positive examples by being physically active and even exercising with their children. Rather than retiring to the couch after dinner, take nightly walks or bike rides as a family. This is a great way to get kids off the couch, but also a great way to spend more time together as a family.
- Involve kids in your own pursuits. Parents who are weekend warrior athletes can involve their kids in their own activities. Take kids along on weekend jogs, kayaking trips and so on, all the while explaining the important role physical activity plays in living a healthy lifestyle.

A Dessert To Please Soul Food Devotees

Soul food is beloved by many people across the globe. While certain main dishes garner the bulk of that love, soul food desserts, such as the following recipe for "Miss Ruthie's Old-Fashioned Peach Cobbler" from Patty Pinner's "Sweets: Soul Food Desserts & Memories" (Ten Speed Press) can complete a meal and keep friends and family coming back for more.

MISS RUTHIE'S OLD-FASHIONED
PEACH COBBLER
Makes one 8-inch cobbler
1 unbaked double pie crust
(see below)
8 cups peeled and sliced fresh peaches
2 cups granulated sugar
1/4 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/8 teaspoon ground allspice
1/2 cup (1 stick) unsalted butter, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Preheat the oven to 475 F. Lightly butter an 8-inch square glass dish. Set it aside. Prepare the pastry for a double-crust pie. Set it aside. Combine the peaches, sugar, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg, and allspice in a 4-quart Dutch oven. Allow the mixture to sit until the dry ingredients are dissolved and a syrup forms, about 15 minutes. Bring the peach mixture to a boil over medium heat. Decrease the heat to low and cook until the peaches are tender, about 10 minutes. Remove the mixture from the heat and add the butter. Roll out half of the pie pastry, then cut it into an 8-inch square. Spoon half of the peach mixture into the prepared dish. Cover the mixture with the pastry square. Bake 12 to 14 minutes, or until lightly browned. Take the dish out of the oven and spoon the remaining peach mixture over the baked pastry. Roll out the remaining pastry, then cut it into strips about an inch wide. Arrange the strips in a loose lattice pattern over the peach mixture. Bake an additional 15 to 20 minutes, or until browned. Remove from the oven. Serve warm.

DOUBLE PIE CRUST
2 cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup vegetable shortening, chilled
1 egg, beaten
6 tablespoons cold milk

In a bowl, combine the flour and salt. Cut the shortening into the dry ingredients with a fork or by pinching the shortening into the flour mixture with your fingers. The result should be coarse crumbs and small clumps the size of peas. Add the egg and mix well. Add the milk 1 tablespoon at a time. Don't be afraid to add more milk if necessary to achieve a dough that's wet enough to form into a ball. Being careful not to overwork the dough, form the dough into a ball with your hands. Wrap the ball in plastic, then chill in the refrigerator for 30 minutes. Transfer the dough from the refrigerator to a lightly floured surface. Flatten the ball slightly and dust the top of it with flour before rolling it out with a rolling pin. Divide the dough into two portions before rolling. Begin rolling at the center of the dough and work outward. Roll the dough out into a circle about 4 inches wider than the pie pan it will be placed in.

A Moment of Thanks

for the Grandparents Who Spend a Lifetime Caring

On Grandparent's Day, we celebrate the importance of today's seniors in the lives of their families and the younger generations of our community. Their insight and experience teach us important lessons, and their devotion to their grandchildren reminds us of what's really important.

May We Never Forget

To All Our Firefighters and Rescue Personnel

Joe and Corinne, the owners of Crossroads Heritage Museum are honored to give free admission on September 9th, 10th and 11th to the firefighters and rescue personnel for all they gave on that fateful day, September 11, 2001.

We continue to appreciate all that is given by our firemen, women, and rescue personnel.
